To Whom It May Concern:

RE: MICHELLE FIELDS

It is my understanding that Michelle Fields, the owner of Bon Jour, Inc., has been nominated for Outstanding Businesswoman of the Year and I write this letter to support that nomination.

Before discussing the tremendous strides she has made with her business, I would like to detail some of her community activities which have particularly impressed me. Michelle has always shown a compassionate and caring side in terms of her community involvement. Generally, her efforts have been geared towards the plight of women and children. These are areas which hold particular interest for me, especially when dealing with rape victims and battered and abused women. Even in her business, she has established a Women's Support Group, free of charge. However, before that, she demonstrated her commitment by counseling abused women, volunteering as a rape crisis counselor on the RAAP Crisis Hotline, and assisted in developing programs for children. She and I are presently working on two projects which emanate from ideas she has generated. One involves a substantial curriculum adjustment in public schools and the other deals with motivational video messages for young people. She has also encouraged her clients to assist in raising money for a host of causes such as Children's Hospital.

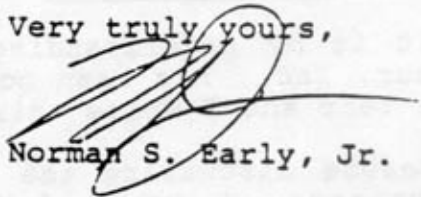

Michelle has, through Bon Jour, Inc., provided a more low cost, affordable, yet fairly exclusive introduction service. She runs it exclusively and is therefore able to provide a personal touch. Since there is no advertising and very little overhead, the price is extremely affordable. She becomes familiar with all of her clients and is able to match them with the likes of TV anchorpeople, basketball franchise executives, attorneys from the State Attorney General's Office, etc.

Letter of Recommendation/RE: Michelle Fields

In 1992, Michelle expanded Bon Jour, Inc. in order to include seniors over sixty and disabled clients. This is an area which has been traditionally overlooked and is also one which shows her involvement and sensitivity to the needs of the community.

If you should have any further questions about Michelle's efforts through Bon Jour and her community work, please don't hesitate to call upon me.

Very truly yours,

Norman S. Early, Jr.
